

Dr. Dina N. Paltoo (Ph.D., M.P.H., C.P.L.) is the Acting Deputy Director for Policy and External Affairs at NIH's National Library of Medicine \(NLM\). In this role, she is a senior advisor to the NLM Director on scientific strategy and establishes and implements science policy frameworks that guide NLM's research, operations, and public services. She establishes partnerships and oversees NLM's relationships across the NIH, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, federal agencies, and external organizations on initiatives and activities to bridge technology and science policy. Previously, Dr. Paltoo was the Assistant Director, Scientific Strategy and Innovation, at NIH's National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute \(NHLBI\). She has also served as the Assistant Director for Policy Development at NLM; the Director of the Division of Scientific Data Sharing Policy; Director of the Genetics, Health, and Society Program within the NIH Director's Office of Science Policy; and a Program Director at NHLBI. Dr. Paltoo received a B.S. in Microbiology and Ph.D. in Physiology and Biophysics from Howard University, an M.P.H. from the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, and a Certificate in Public Leadership from Washington University Olin Business School at the Brookings Institution.